Student for QA & Testing

Hamburg

Demodern is looking for a working student who supports us at our office in Hamburg as of now for testing and quality assurance within various web and installation projects. Flexibility in time would be a benefit and it would be great if your studies will go on for at least one year.

Your tasks:

- Independent execution of manual test cases with different browsers, operating systems and mobile devices
- Documentation and communication of the test results and experiences
- Assistance in the ongoing improvement of test plans and QA sheets in Web, AR, VR and installation projects
- Collaboration with the responsible developers and project managers
- Quality management of software products and software tests

Your skills:

- You are secure in working with computers, websites and mobile devices
- You ideally study media related subjects
- You have an eye for details, find mistakes quickly and proceed in a structured manner
- You like to work in a team, but you also work on tasks in your own responsibility
- You have good oral and written communications skills
- You have experience with content management systems
- Experience in testing software is beneficial

Please send your application not via snail mail, but via mail to jobs@demodern.de
